Her practice is focused on antitrust law, complemented by extensive experience in corporate law, civil contracts, and real estate matters.

She has advised various companies on both global and national merger notifications and represented them in investigations related to alleged anticompetitive practices, essential inputs, and barriers to competition. She has also been involved in defending economic agents before specialized courts and has provided consulting on the design of policies, compliance strategies, and best practices in antitrust matters.

She previously worked at one of the most renowned notary offices in Mexico City, gaining valuable experience in civil law and real estate matters, as well as in designing and implementing corporate structures.

She graduated from the Instituto Tecnológico Autónomo de México (ITAM) (degree completion process) and completed a diploma in Antitrust Law at the Centro de Investigación y Docencia Económicas (CIDE).
